Nearsighted decision-making has had a significant impact on our elements. Australia's bushfires exemplifies this, with long-lasting effects on our native animals. This piece shines light on that uncomfortable but important reality. A Koala melting amongst the chaos; winds gusting; fires roaring; rain pouring; our earth witnessing catastrophic climate crisis.

In the wetlands of South and South-East Asia lives the original sopping-wet puss. This wild species is most at home by the water, partaking in long-distance swimming and diving to catch their prey of fish, crabs and amphibians. Due to human persecution and the pussy-pounding of their native habitat, the fishing cat is vulnerable to extinction.
