

LARK TINKY

OPENING: Fri 24 Nov 6-9pm

DATES: 16 - 30 Nov 2023

*In a shocking twist, the gumball machine malfunction put an end to Jason and Leo's attempt at petty theft.
It took a lot of balls, but the result was hard to swallow.*

by Tinky

Vintage gumball machine, bubble-gum, faux greenery, coin, miniature figurines $450

After hoping for a smooth finish, Jack had a close shave, narrowly missing the dense wood.
by Tinky
Vintage timber hand plane, clay, faux landscape, miniature figurine
$350 SOLD

Jasmine knew something was brewing between her husband and best friend. It had been oolong time coming, but she knew after a robust conversation her friend would spill the tea.

by Tinky

Antique silver teapot, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$350 SOLD

Denis couldn't picture himself giving up his penchant for flash photography.
by Tinky

Vintage Diana camera and flash, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines, XL glass cloche $450 (with XL cloche) SOLD

Grindr had really come through for Dick this time. Troy's piercing blue eyes and abs of steel proved stimulating, as did his Prince Albert.

by Tinky

Vintage Prince Albert tobacco tin, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines cloche

$270 SOLD

Candy was feeling bitter about a sticky situation with her sugar daddy. She was craving a sweet tart but always found herself eating dry old spotted dick.

by Tinky

Vintage CSR Treacle tin, clay, faux landscape, miniature figurines, glass cloche
$330 (with cloche)

Gerry could have sworn he aimed for the rabbit.
by Tinky

Vintage gunpowder tin, clay, faux landscape, miniature figurines, glass cloche
$350 (with cloche)

After ingesting some unsavoury luncheon meat, things were looking grim for Tony.
by Tinky
Vintage 'Devilled Ham Spread' tin, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines, cloche
$220 SOLD

Jocelyn used her key assets to unlock an escape plan for her boyfriend. She knew there'd never been a bigger bust.

by Tinky

Vintage iron lock and key, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines, glass cloche

$350 SOLD

Renowned for his cheating ways, Sue's boyfriend was a complete tool. While he'd lied to her about his infidelity before, this time she felt he was on the level.

by Tinky

Vintage timber level, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$210 SOLD

*Brian wasn't sure bringing on indentured labour was the right decision for this cleaning job.
He braced himself for the worst, but it was a false alarm, with the crew really sinking their teeth into the work.*
by Tinky

Dentures (decontaminated), individual porcelain teeth, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines, glass cloche
$350 SOLD

After years in the fast-food business, Herb was feeling sluggish. He hoped this new slower pace would be the silver lining he needed.

by Tinky

Vintage French escargot pan, found garden snail shells, faux greenery, resin, miniature figurines

$250

In an effort to tighten the purse strings, Janet suddenly regretted doing a coin-toss to decide who would buy lunch.
by Tinky
Vintage mesh-style purse, clay, faux greenery, coin, miniature figurines, glass cloche
$300 SOLD

Distracted by the handsome Spanish hitchhiker, and the bumpy roads, Mario suddenly remembered he'd left his glasses at home.

by Tinky

Vintage 'Schimmelpenninck' cigar tin, vintage map, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$180 SOLD

Sam was a graffiti removalist by trade but much preferred to paint the town red when he was feeling blue.

by Tinky

Vintage cigarette tin, spray paint, miniature figurines

$210 SOLD

It had been a stinker of a day for Cam. While it wasn't the worst, it was a solid number two.

by Tinky

Vintage 'Town Talk' tobacco tin, newspaper (found in tin), clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines $170

When her husband said he was keen to start swinging at the park, this wasn't what Marcia had in mind.

by Tinky

Vintage Ayrton's indigestion tablet tin, vintage book illustration, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$170

After a rocky year, Brett was hoping his new-found love of hiking would provide him with a new lust for life.

by Tinky

Vintage 'Bugler' tobacco tin, vintage book illustration, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$170 SOLD

Candice suddenly realised she'd sent a mixed message when agreeing to flash for a stack of dough.

by Tinky

Vintage cigarette tin, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$170 SOLD

Reg was constantly fishing for condiments and Trish was feeling salty. She was tired of the same old line and wasn't going to take the bait anymore.
by Tinky

Vintage cigarette tin, clay, soy-sauce fish, acrylic paint, faux greenery, miniature figurines $170

This was the last thing Fabio expected when his ski instructor invited him to chase some lines of pure white powder.

by Tinky

Vintage tobacco tin, clay, acrylic paint, faux landscape, miniature figurines

$170 SOLD

Traci's bush walk didn't get off to a solid start. A late breakfast meant her movements were running a little behind.

by Tinky

Vintage laxative tin, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurine

$170

Often one to find herself in a jam, Deb enjoyed picking the lowest hanging fruit for her Tinder dates, and hoped Gavin might be the one to pop her cherry.

by Tinky

Vintage tobacco tin, vintage book illustration, plastic cherries, clay, fauxgreenery, miniature figurines

$170 SOLD

At the risk of making a tit of himself playing volleyball at the nudist park, Trevor secretly hoped for a bounce.

by Tinky

Vintage tin, vintage children's book illustration, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$170

Caroline suddenly understood why her personal trainer was so keen to demonstrate his special outdoor chair exercises.

by Tinky

Vintage tobacco tin, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$170 SOLD

Terry thought the top-down approach was working well with his gas problem.

by Tinky

Vintage 'Lucky Hit Tobacco' tin, vintage book illustration, clay, toy car, faux greenery, miniature figurine $170

Marion wondered if she'd taken her honeytrap idea too far.

by Tinky

Vintage cigarette tin, vintage book illustration, clay, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$170 SOLD

After Yasmin's mirror-ball stopped working, she was relieved to call in the disco-techs.
by Tinky
Vintage tin, mirror ball, mirror tiles, glitter, miniature figurines
$170 SOLD

After Harry retired, the crew soon realised he left big shoes to fill.

by Tinky

Vintage Benson and Hedges cigarette tin, clay, plastic Barbie-doll shoe, faux landscape, miniature figurines, spray paint

$170 SOLD

As she tried to enjoy a good soak, Sandy wondered if she and her husband would be asked to leave the Ikea store.

by Tinky

Vintage 'Ardath' cigarette tin, acrylic paint, paper, miniature figurines

$170 SOLD

When Steve accepted an invitation to drop a couple of lines with his mate, this wasn't quite what he had in mind.

by Tinky

Vintage typewriter ink eraser tin, vintage book illustration, clay, acrylic paint, faux greenery, miniature figurines

$150 SOLD

For sales enquiries please email your name & phone number to:

info@offthekerb.com.au

or ring

0400530464

We ship worldwide

66B JOHNSTON STREET COLLINGWOOD

T (03) 9077 0174 M 0400 530 464

info@offthekerb.com.au | www.offthekerb.com.au

Thur - Fri 12.00pm - 6.00pm | Sat - Sun 12.00pm - 5.00pm